19 Course Description:

This course is aimed at analyzing and investigating the formation of identity at the personal, societal and cultural levels triggered by the contact between the Self and the Other. It introduces students to the different dimensions of (Hegemony, Hierarchy) applicable to relationships of oppositions such as (Man/Woman, Hierarchical System/Society, Colonizer/Colonized, White/Black, Subject/Object, Self/Other, and difference/diversity). The course provides first a historical overview of chosen intellectual and political moments of certain countries which have affected either negative or positive change, starting the Renaissance. Students will then identify and trace the moments of colonial relations which will allow the location of diverse postcolonial/postmodern synergy through the theoretical studies of knowledge, power and being. The course will also examine ways in which language can be actively varied by speakers according to social contexts, to express deference, solidarity, and identity. More specifically, the course will analyse ways in which gender is communicated and marked in language. How do people express identity through language? How is powerlessness revealed in talk? Is language inherently sexist? There are a number of different approaches to the analysis of discourse, such as Discourse Analysis, Conversation Analysis, Critical Discourse Analysis, Analysis of Institutional Talk, Interactional Sociolinguistics. A major focus of the course will be to critically examine some of these different approaches to the analysis of discourse, with respect to the issues of gender and identity.

20 Course aims and outcomes:

A- Aims: (PLOs)

Upon successful completion of the Master's Program in Language, Culture and Communication, students should be able to:

- 1) Explain, and argue for, the ways in which language expresses deference, power, solidarity and identity.
- 2) Explain and argue for some of the different approaches to the analysis of discourse, including Discourse Analysis, Conversation Analysis, Critical Discourse Analysis, Analysis of Institutional Talk, Interactional Sociolinguistics.
- 3) Understand the different ways in which language can be analysed in terms of power, solidarity, identity, gender.
- 4) Think about, write and present an argument related to the analysis of discourse.
- 5) Foster multicultural understanding as manifested in the awareness of and respect for points of view deriving from other national, social, or cultural backgrounds.
- 6) Conduct independent research in the field of Language, Power and Identity.

Rubric for Term-paper

The following are grade descriptors which are designed to help you understand how your mark was arrived at:

20
20	An outstanding paper showing a complete overall grasp of the major issues and their implications, and a clear grasp of relevant standard critical approaches to the subject.
	Evidence of capacity to think independently and to formulate own criteria and judgements. Argument very clearly structured and confidently supported by appropriate evidence derived from primary and secondary sources. Presentation is פמסון Syllabus

	excellent; sources are thoroughly cited. Exceptional essay that could not be bettered at this level.
19-18	An excellent paper showing considerable understanding of the major issues and a capacity to use standard critical approaches appropriate to the subject. Evidence of developing confidence in formulating independent ideas, criteria and judgements. Argument cogent and clearly supported by appropriate evidence drawn from mainly secondary (possibly some primary) sources, which are thoroughly cited. Presentation is excellent. Ambitious essay, unusually perceptive at this level.
17-16	A very good, well-focused paper demonstrating a very good level of understanding of the major issues under discussion and reasonable confidence in handling standard approaches to the subject. Some evidence of capacity for independent thought in developing an argument that draws on secondary sources to put forward an analysis that is generally sound, although there may be occasional lack of clarity or organisation. Presentation is generally very good and sources are well documented
15	A good, competent paper in all or most areas, or showing moderate competence in some areas but excellence in others. Able to summarise and interpret primary (and some secondary) material in a way that demonstrates awareness of major issues and some capacity for critical evaluation. Less ambitious in scope than First Class, but still aiming to achieve a good level of analysis. At the lower end of the scale, there may be some shortcomings, but major errors are avoided. Presentation generally competent; sources adequately documented.
14	Essay fair and reasonably competent in all or most areas, or uneven paper showing strength in some areas but weakness in others. Fairly competent knowledge or understanding of the material studied, but characterised by one or more of the following: lack of critical analysis; lack of considered thought; argument not always well-structured or relevant; some gaps in planning and use of evidence; lacks the comprehensiveness, accuracy and/or cohesiveness expected of an Upper Second.

	Some awareness of critical debates but may be too descriptive or generalised; would benefit from sharper focus and more reflection; presentation is fair, sources documented, but perhaps with some inconsistency/gaps.
13	Adequate paper in all or most areas, tending to be descriptive with uncritical coverage of debates and issues, but with some basic (or minimal, at the lower end of the scale) relevant information and understanding.
	Some evidence of reading and attempt to address question or topic, but with substantial omissions or irrelevant material.
	Skills of planning, structuring and presentation relatively weak; barely adequate understanding of concepts, barely adequate use of reading and sources with 12.0.5	poor referencing.
12-9.5	Unsatisfactory paper showing minimal achievement but containing some elementary relevant information. Reliant on a minimal range of reading and poor attention to detail.
	May be repetitive consisting of a string of weak statements/opinions which may not relate to each other. Assertions without supporting evidence; minimal reflection, poor planning
	and presentation; sources very inadequately cited.
9-7	Poor paper, inadequate in almost all areas, displaying little knowledge or understanding. Insufficient evidence that the candidate has adequately benefited from the material studied. Poorly organised and THAN THAT SUBJECT FOOLLY DEVALUATED AND confused argument; little or no evidence of 6-3	Very poor paper in which there is no evidence of understanding or knowledge of the material studied; inability to construct an argument; lack of planning or presentation skills; significant elements of irrelevance or error; no sources or sources not cited.

2-0	Extremely poor and incoherent essay; irrelevant and error-strewn; no sources.
